

Marshall Moutenot

Managing Director, Upstream Tech

1

After gaining a broad set of technical and product experience at early stage technology companies, Marshall Moutenot was left wondering how technologists could address climate change. In early 2017, he decided to pursue a route of direct impact, co-founding public benefit corporation Upstream Tech. Using satellite imagery, environmental datasets, and machine learning, Upstream Tech powers decision making at conservation groups, corporate sustainability offices, and agriculture associations.